S. Korea asks U.S. for arms

Seoul, June 25. The Acting Premier, Mr. Sinh Sung No, said tonight he had forwarded an urgent appeal to Washington for tanks. planes, larger calibre artillery and ships for South Korea against a major assault by the Northern Communists.

Mr. Sihn said after a long cabinet meeting, that he had radioed the Korean Ambassador. in Washington, Mr. John M. Chang, to appeal to President Truman to act quickly,

The need for vessels was great, he added. Landings have been made with small craft at three places along the Korean East

He said that a full division of 10,000 men, supported by 00 tanks, had struck at Po Chon, East of Tongduchon.

10 day's ammunition

A highly placed source in Tokyo today said South Korea has only 10 day's ammunition supply and is calling on General MacArthur for emergency shipments, adds a United Press despatch from Tokyo. This source discounted the jublished statements of the North the best estimate is the Northern army numbers only about 66,000. plus 10,000 in the security, force and 40,000 police. The South has 96,000 regulars and 45,000 police. An American official said ho believed that neither side was prepared for a long war because of the shortage of ammunition, gasoline and transport facilities. However, both Russia and the United States can, and probably will, rush supplies into the battle; this source snid:

UK interest in Korean situation

London, June 25. The Minister of State, Mr. Kenneth Younger, returned to London today from a weekend in the country to examine the situation resulting from the North Korean invasion of Southern Korea.

Britain's representative at the emergency meeting of the Security Council to consider the Korean situation will be Sir Terence Shone, former British High Commissioner in India. But despite their huge gaping mouths and vast length baskers are quite harmless, and feed on the chopped salad diet of the herring-plankton. They sieve it into their mouths through stringy gill-strainers like the stout teeth

Gavin Maxwell, a young Scots Guards officer, was the first man held by Members on the A.M. for as soon thereafter as to exploit baskers on a commercial, scale after the Second War. He bought the Macleod of Maclcod, hereditary Lord of the Isles, and equipped it with a steam - extracting plant, .The sharks were hunted from open fishing boats with harpoons up voluntarily, and that Messrs. mounted on a 12ft. length of gas

One 30-footer was caught after a 10-hour chase through the night with the fish towing the craft along at the end of a 40-fathom line; another "sounded" like a stricken whale, wagged its tall in the air, and threw the harpoon back into; the pursuing boat where it virtually scalped member of the crew.

Heavy harpoon They hastily rowed him ashore to one of the little islands in The Minch, where a crofter's wife sewed him up with a sail needle and . pack thread, a most unhygienie performance, which undoubtedly saved his life.

Maxwell eventually evolved a technique for sneaking up behind the beasts-they often bask on the surface and scarcely movein a powerful motor launch, and firing a heavy harpoon into their flanks-from an old powdercharged whaling gun. To tire them out, he tied barrel floats at intervals along the harpoon line, and these are occasionally carried down into the depths of the sea, whereupon they cave ir with the pressure.

About an hour or two after they are harpooned, the sharks are this Tax have now been issued, killed off with a shotgun, lassooed and any person liable to this from an attendant launch, and then tied head to tail alongside mand Note should enquire at the parent ship, for the journey -back to Soay island for process-

BRITAIN'S WAR OF RECOVERY

The recent report of the Economic Co-operation Administration paid striking tribute to the extent of Britain's recovery from the war. Industrial output in Western Europe as a whole is 24 per Western Europe is 8 per cent above last year's level; in the up. U.K. it is 10 per cent up. The Labour organ, the "Daily Herald" was not slow to assert that these vital facts are "a complete vindication of British policy.".

The contrast between 1945 and 1950, it is true, is dramatic. At the end of the war cannot convey is the force and all British industries were witality of his presence. Yet he geared to war needs. Children hardly knew what a shell-egg was or what an orange looked like. Few economists then believed that within five years so great a recovery would be made.

It would not have been made without the magnificent help of the United States, and of the Commonwealth, as the Labour paper freely admits. Still, it remains true that this help could not have performed the miracle alone. Recovery was brought about by a great national effort and what was, on the whole, a wise national policy. Either must have failed without the other. The of unpleasant but necessary austerities. Agrarian reforms come first, Mao tells conference

San Francisco, June 24. Mao Tse-tung told the Chinese Communist "parliament" in Peking today that nationalising industry and agriculture were still plans for the distant future, and that the immediate task facing the country was the implementation of agrarian reforms.

Addressing the final meeting of the second session of the National Committee of the Chinese People's Political Consultative Conference which had been in session in Peking for three weeks, Mao also reaffirmed his foreign policy of leaning to one side.

He said: "We must firmly unite with the Soviet Union, the various people's democracies and all the peaceful democratic forces throughout the world."

In his opening remarks, Mao Tse-tung assured the delegates that they were members of a de facto legislative body whose proposals were virtually certain to be adopted and put into effect by the Central People's Government. He then turned to the question of agrarian reform which he described as the central subject of the subjects discussed by the Conference.

He said: "The test of war has and people throughout the country are satisfied. Now that we passed the test of war." . .

He continued: "When ism, of carrying out socialist reforms throughout the nation—be

He continued: "We have adopted the method of criticism and self-criticism at this meet ing according to the common programme. This is an excellent method, which prompts everyone of cus to uphold the truth and correct errors. This is the only correct method for all ... to carry out self-education and self-reformation."

He said the policy with regard to elements who oppose the "people's democratic dictatorship" was "not to allow them for such period as is necessary to take part in political activities; compel them to obey the law of the People's Government, and compel them to werk and to remould themselves into new people by labour."

During its three-week session, the Conference passed in number of resolutions embodying a new, liberal economic programme of reduced taxation and retrenchment of Government expenditure, including a proposal to reduce the strength of the armed

Bombay's strike

A threatened strike and ended tonight with agreement between the Dock Workers' Union and the employers.

The Union, with a membership of over 6,000 of the port's 24,000 workers, decided last night, after negotiations with the Chairman of the Port Trust, Mr. L. T. Gholop, to postpone the strike which was to have begun today.

It was called in sympathy with the 3,500 stevedores who were "shut out" by their employers on June 10 for go-slow factics which began on June 6.

Under the settlement reached after long negotiations, the employers, the Bombay Stevedores' Association, agreed to pay the workers 10 days' basic wages instead of the two-month bonus which the Union first demanded.

The "shut out" workers are to leturn to duty on Monday with a promise from employers that there will be no victimisation. The employers agreed to dismiss on Britain's own economic affairs July 31 replacements taken on are in such a state of rigidity 20,000 bales of the crop going to niter the "go slow" movement that it takes only a minor

Sight-seeing along the Praya

No. 1: Some familiar names

Housed in three imposing buildings along the Central Praya—Queen's, St. George's and King's -are same of the Colony's most prominent shipping organisations whose names have been associated with ships known for their humanitarian work, their luxury or their vital job in maintaining the Colony's livelihood.

Such "floating_palaces" as the President Wilson, the La Marseillaise and the Ruys, or gallant craft like the Caroline Moller, are operated by these firms.

Twenty-one years ago, the sa. Cornevelle arrived in Hong Kong with a tall, sturdy Norwegian lad of 16 working in the pantry who was seeing the Far East for the first time after hearing so much obcut it in school.

Today, the local waterfront community know him as the new skipper of the push-button controlled inptor vessel Mul Ann, pride of the "Mul" fleet. All B. Justad chose life afteat

A family friend residing in the same house, was a master mariner and young Justed used to spend hours listening wide-eyed to tales of the Seven Seas from the veteran.

Born at Drammen, Norway Justnd is typically the self-made seamon. From the servile rank of pantry-boy, he become a seaman within two years of sailing. During that period he had alirendy seen ment of the United States and the Far East.

Like any other Norwegian youth, he served in the Norwegian Navy on national service after finishing school. On completion of his term Justad rejoined the merchant marine. He was an A/B and later bootswain on the ss. Granvelle, which was plying along the China Coast.

After 18 months, he signed off at Shanghal, went to Dairen, from where he returned to Norway by the Trans Siberian Rail-

_Justad-then spent 10 months in the Tonsberg (Norway) Mates School. In 1937, he took to sea again. He signed on as third officer on the ss. Matros. Three yours later he became chief officer of the Panamanian freighter.

War broke out in Norway on April 9, 1940, when Chief Officer Justad was en route home from Bangkok. His ship was diverted to New York, where he signed off. He remained there until 1941, when he joined a fruit ship.

SCORE BRING NDIES SEVEN 320 FOR

London, June 24.

After laying the foundation of a good score, the West Indies batsmon faltered against the spin bowling of Roley Jenkins after tea and allowed some of the initiative to slip from their grasp on the first day of the second Test match against England at Lords.

West Indies had batted attractively and aggressively up to tea. They were always seeking runs and played all the bowlers confidently. Then an inspired spell by the Warcester leg-break bowler, Jenkins, had the batsmen puzzled-and in seven overs he took three wickets at a personal cost of 27 runs.

London, June 24. Cricketers again had trouble with the weather in the series of matches which started today. Only 20 minutes' play was possible in the match at Buxton between Derbyshire and Lancashire and most of the other games experienced holdups because of rain some time during the day. In the first-class matches, apart from the Test, there were only two century-makers today. Arthur Fagg dominated the Kent innings against the County Championship leaders, Warwickshire, and with strokes all round the wicket he had scored 136 not out—his highest innings of the season—by the close of play.

He reached his century in three and a quarter hours and at the end of the day his score included 14 fours.
